Jaguar Land Rover Experience

Clients requirements

Approached by our client ,The Event Business, to supply an unique structure suitable for the JLR experience stand at GFOS. The site was hampered by a huge tree, a solution was required to incorporate the tree within their event space.

How we achieved their goals

Losberger supplied a 30m Palas, a double storey event structure that was raised on a scaffold base to meet the levels of the Jaguar Land Rover Experience track and exterior decked display areas; calculated by independent structural engineers.

To complement the structure Losberger installed bespoke interiors including column covers, soffits, ceiling linings and large format graphics along with a kitchen area to the 1st floor and a bespoke built store room on the ground floor.

We overcame the problem of the tree by designing the structure to fit around it by removing elements of the floor system. Using the grassed area around the tree was used as a miniature Land Rover experience track with remote control cars.

Losberger also supplied the impressive exterior graphic parapet that had to be re-inforced to accommodate 3D logos, supplied by others, enhancing the overall finish of the structure and included design details such as glass handrails for the owners lounge.

To the left of the Losberger Palas was the Jaguar F Type passenger experience, live footage was taken from inside the vehicles as they drove around the track, streamed to a large screen at the front of the structure. Jaguar fans queued in their hundreds to take a turn. On the right was the Land Rover passenger experience, an off road course which included a wade pool and numerous elevated off road simulations, equally as popular.

“Client was blown away by our presence at the show and we took a record number of leads compared with previous years. I was incredibly impressed by the quality of work you guys delivered from early planning stages right through to handover – attention to even the smallest details was second to none” Ben Milton, The Event Business

Uncompromising commitment to quality and safety from factory to festival, shelf to show!

Safety 1st

Rest assured we guarantee your temporary structure is built in accordance with the highest safety standards, including the latest changes to the Construction Design and Management Regulations (CDM) that now applies to the events industry.

BSEN13782 is an EU standard which specifies safety requirements needing to be observed considering the calculations, design, correct installation, manufacture, operation, examination and testing of mobile temporary installed tents and marquees with a covered area of more than 50m². Losberger tented temporary structures are accompanied by a site specific conformity report prepared by an independent structural engineer certifying the compliance with the guidelines set out In BS EN 13782:2015. We want customers to know our prices will reflect not only the cost of hiring or buying first class equipment but also first class safety.

Ideas into reality

Known for our 'can do' attitude and design solutions we do what ever it takes to meet our clients brief, offering guidance, advice and the best value for money.

Client Requirements

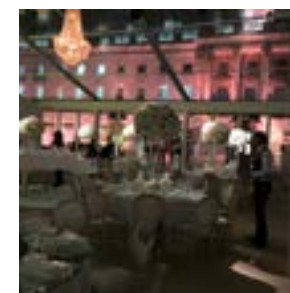

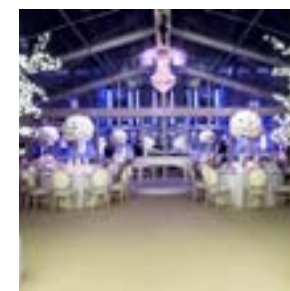

Supply a high end VIP hospitality event structure for our client, Polar Black Events. The structure needed to include a shop fit facade that mimics the famous watch brand's new Bond Street Salon. Install high end interior divisions inside the structure for service rooms, supplying a structure that would allow 360 degree views of the magnificent Grade I listed building and surroundings.

How we achieved their goals

The entire front façade of the event structure was designed and manufactured by our in house team of shop fitting specialists. The outcome was a superb and convincing boutique store front that looked as high end as the brand itself.

Inside the structure Losberger built two internal walls, one to create a cloak room and the second to create the catering area with a concealed service entrance. Running the length of the structure was a decorative soffit to hang elegant chandeliers illuminating the tastefully decorated dining area.

The rest of the structure was completely clear with glass walls and walkway. Losberger have been specialising in branded event structure facades for over 10 years, turning any event structure into an exclusive, high end, experiential mobile marketing spectacular.

We are proud to work at some of Britain's most iconic Grade 1 listed buildings including Somerset House, The Royal Courts of Justice, Royal Albert Hall, Royal Brighton Pavilion and Hampton Court Palace, amongst others.

How we achieved their goals

Bentley Motors

Reputation

Losberger's reputation in the industry for on site professionalism and a high standard of finish gave us the opportunity to quote for the Bentley Motors stand at Goodwood.

Clients requirements

To supply a structure based on their favourite design options, which included bespoke curved walls and branding to all elevations. The stand had to be easily accessible from two open sides and finished to a very high standard.

How we achieved their goals

Losberger's 20,5/400 x 25m Kubo structure with a 2.5m high parapet on a scaffold sub frame was the perfect solution to match the designs they had presented us. Our team of specialist joiners created the bespoke curved walls cut with a CNC machine for accuracy. A bespoke glazed railing systems to the perimeter and staircases finished the open and welcoming entrance areas.

"Thanks to you and your team for the support, the event was a success for our client, which means a success for us. It was great working with you and your team, during the planning as well as on site". Thomas Rennings, Project Manager Display International

Provide a structure with panoramic views, including a separate floor system to hold a large igloo shaped structure for 360° video streaming, delivering and installing overnight to meet the tight time constraints.

How we achieved their goals

Losberger's classic 21.3/400 x 25m uniflex frame, with clear covers, allowed for a panoramic view of Somerset House's superb courtyard. The Losberger structure served as the hospitality area which led into an innovative 21m geodesic dome provided by 360° projection specialists Igloo Vision.

The Broadgate Reading Room

Modular Pop Up Systems

Plug and play modular units easily add additional sections to increase in 6m x 2.5m increments. A great advantage of these modular buildings is that they are stack-able; adding a second level and even a roof terrace. The shape and speed of installation means these are ideal for city centre locations.

Clients requirements

As part of the Literary Greats season Broadgate commissioned a unique space in Finsbury Avenue Square 'The Broadgate Reading Room'. The event space had to look and feel like a contemporary high quality permanent building but with the speed and convenience of a pop up space, easily branded.

How we achieved their goals

This innovative 'off the shelf' temporary event building is a 'plug and play' modular system. Branded on 3 elevations with large format graphics, finished internally with white painted walls, laminate flooring, spot lights and USB charging sockets for phones and tablets. The event space was delivered and assembled in just 6 hours.
